Remember to ask permission from a grown up before you do this. You can listen to the facts about the Great Fire of London and answer questions or complete tasks as the game goes on.

Once you've played the game, use the information you've learnt to answers these questions:

- what year did the fire start?
- where did the fire start?
- how did the fire spread?
- what damage did the fire do?
- how did the fire stop?
- who was Samuel Pepys?

You can include any other interesting facts you might have found out!

We'd like you to write the information in full sentences but you can choose how you would like to display it. You could do a fact file, a poster or a booklet for example. Make it as colourful and as fun as you can!
